PAYS TRIBUTE TO WOMANKIND

JUDGE OTIS SPEAKS ON LIFE OF ABE LINCOLN.

HOPKINS HEARS A SON

M. E. Church There Crowded Last Night to Listen to Otis Praise Lincoln's Mother.

Judge Merrill A. Otis, federal judge of the western district of Missouri, came back to his birthplace last night to talk at the Hopkins M. E. Church about Honest Abe Lincoln.

Judge Otis was introduced by Ellis G. Cook, Maryville attorney, to a crowd which filled every available seat. The program was arranged by Rev. J. Howard Thompson, pastor of the church.

One of the most significant statements made by Judge Otis in his Lincoln day address was a tribute to Lincoln's mother and step-mother and to womankind in general when he said, "When we think of Lincoln today let us think of Nancy Hanks and Sally Bush and all the women who helped mould the life of the great emancipator and savior of the Republic.

In starting to talk about Lincoln, Judge Otis pointed out the fact that a great deal had been written about the man, 2,689 books to be exact, and that the best he could do in one short speech would be to point out a few incidents in the life of the man which would point directly to his character.

Told of Life.

After telling of the meager log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born, Judge Otis began to briefly trace the life of the man. "One hundred and nineteen years ago today was born in that log cabin the sweetest character since the days of Jesus Christ," he said. "Thomas Lincoln threw a blanket over his wife and ran out of the door toward a neighbor and relative's house far away to break the news of the birth of the new baby boy.

"Dennis Hanks, a nephew of Nancy Hanks, the mother of Lincoln, came running from the house after he heard the news, and hastened to see his new cousin. Dennis wanted to hold the new baby in his arms, and was permitted to do so, but young Lincoln began to cry. 'Here, take him back,' he said to Nancy Hanks, 'he'll never amount to nothin.'"

Then Judge Otis traced the early life of the boy, telling of the hardships of the first winter which was spent in a lean-to, with only a fireplace made of logs to furnish heat. He told of the death of Nancy Hanks Lincoln when Abe was still a boy, and of the solemn burial which was witnessed by only Thomas Lincoln, Abraham and his sister and Dennis Hanks.

"One day later, Thomas Lincoln came home with a new mother for his children. He called Abe to him and said, 'Here, Abe, is your new mammy.' But Sally Bush, unlike a great many step-mothers, was kind to young Lincoln, and was a great help to him in his quest for knowledge. She said that his mind was her mind, what little she had.

"One day she said to Lincoln, 'You can bring all the mud into the house on your feet that you want to, but don't get your head dirty. I don't want the ceiling to get dirty.' Abe went out, found two small boys and stuck their feet in the mud and then walked them up-side-down across the ceiling. When Mrs. Lincoln came in the house she was highly amused at the prank, and both of them laughed long over it. Abraham then carefully cleaned all of the mud from the ceiling."

Tribute to Mother.

It was at this point that Judge Otis paid the tribute to Lincoln's mothers and to all womankind in general.

The speaker told about Lincoln's coming into New Salem and about his being made clerk at the election which was in progress on that day. "It was here that Lincoln started telling the stories by which he is so well known." Then Judge Otis told the story of the preacher and the blue lizard, the first story Lincoln is supposed to have narrated.

A circuit preacher came into a rural community one time to deliver his sermon. The preacher was very poorly dressed, in fact he had on nothing over his under clothing but some blue denim trousers, suspended by one piece of string across the shoulder, and a blue shirt. He stepped into the pulpit and began his sermon, taking for his text, "I am the Christ whom I represent to-

Cold Wave Predicted On Way After Rains

ThTermometer Due for Big Drop Following High Temperature of 66 Reached Here Saturday

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 13—Rain that has fallen in Kansas City for the past 18 hours will turn to snow tonight and the temperature will drop sharply, weather bureau officials said today.

Cold Wave Predicted

A drizzling rain fell in Kansas City and the surrounding territory last night and showed no signs of abatement today.

The rain will be followed by colder weather, it was predicted by weather bureau officials here.

The predicted cold wave will come from the northwest, it is said, and belief was expressed by the local observer that the temperature will fall as low as 20 degrees within the next 24 hours.

Should the forecast prove correct it will mean a drop of 40 degrees from the maximum in Kansas City yesterday.

COOLER AFTER SUMMER HEAT

NEW RECORD SET.—THERMOMETER UP TO 66.

RAIN MEASURES .13

Cold Wave Is Predicted for Part of This Week.—Heavy Rain Falls in Kansas City.

Temperature of 66 degrees reached here Saturday constituted the warmest February 11 on the local records, which cover a period of 36 years, J. R. Brink, local official weather observer, stated this morning. The record reading Saturday was followed by another high mark Sunday of 64 degrees.

A rainfall of .13 of an inch last night and early this morning sent the thermometer on a downward trail today, and this signals the advance of a cold wave, weather officials stated.

The cold and rainy weather today kept motorists from a distance away from the state automobile license branch office at the Chamber of Commerce office. Miss Catherine Tobin, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, reported at 2 o'clock this afternoon she had issued twenty-three licenses, bringing the total to 833.

Eighty-two pairs of plates were issued Saturday.

NEWTON BAKER IS SUGGESTED FOR PRESIDENT

Wilson's Secretary of War Would Be Good Democratic Possibility is Declared

Washington, Feb. 13—Former Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker was suggested by Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa today as a good Democratic presidential possiblity. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture in the Wilson cabinet, declared here Baker has a following in the middle West and can get the Iowa delegation if he desires. Incidentally Meredith said he himself is not a candidate for the nomination. He has been reported as a likely legatee of McAdoo strength in the Democratic party.

"Baker is an able man, a splendid orator and of unquestioned integrity," Meredith said. "There is considerable sentiment against Gov. Al Smith in Iowa, and the middle West and soon this opposition will begin to organize against the New York governor."

The strength of the opposition has not been apparent, he explained, because it has not been organized.

BITTER FIGHT IN KEY STATE

HOOVER WILL OPPOSE WILLIS IN OHIO.

CAMPAIGN INTO OPEN

Hoover's Announcement Gives Impression of Battle to Come for G. O. P. Presidential Nomination.

By PAUL MALLON.
(U. P. Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 13.—The campaign for the Republican presidential nomination was brought into the open today by announcement of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover that he will be a receptive candidate.

The announcement came as a challenge to senator Frank B. Willis who has sought to be Ohio's favorite son candidate, and it presaged a bitter battle for delegates of that key state.

Hoover wrote a letter to Col. Thad Brown of Columbus authorizing entry of his name in the Ohio primary; cautioning against excessive campaign expenditures and pledging continuation of Coolidge policies if he is selected party standard bearer.

Willis immediately served notice upon Hoover that the contest for the Ohio delegates would be no child's play. He told the United Press that as yet he had not had time to analyze the Hoover statement but that "Mr. Hoover will know after the primary whether he acted wisely upon the advice of the few friends he has in Ohio."

The method of Hoover's announcement gave an impression of the battle that is to come. Several weeks ago Willis announced he would seek Ohio's delegation. His friends said he hoped for a deadlock in the convention similar to that which resulted in 1920 in the unexpected nomination of Warren G. Harding of Ohio.

At that time Hoover's friends went to Willis and asked him to agree to naming Hoover as Ohio's choice. Willis told them he would not countenance selection of any second choice and that his delegates must be pledged to him from start to finish.

Hoover's Ohio supporters resisted Willis' stand and last week organized at Columbus to request Hoover to run against Willis in their state. Brown was selected to present the letter to the Secretary, and Hoover answered formally announcing his national candidacy.

Predict Split in G. O. P.

Columbus, O., Feb. 13—Fred W. Warner, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, reiterated today that he believed entrance of Secretary of Commerce Hoover into the Ohio presidential preference primary would precipitate a party split and deliver the state to the Democrats.

Open Campaign Wednesday

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 13—Supporters of Herbert Hoover will open his presidential campaign in Indiana at a mass meeting in Indiana Harbor Wednesday night, it was announced today. A country-wide organization will be formed. Other counties were expected to form similar organizations.

NEWTON URGES THE G. O. P. TO BACK HOOVER

Former Congressman Devotes Interest of Hoover's Candidacy at Meeting of Young Republicans.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 13.—Former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton was here today at the meeting of Young Missouri Republicans and devoted his time to work in the interests of the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for president.

Hoover advocates were booming Gov. Sam Baker as a running mate for the Secretary of Commerce because of anti-Hoover sentiment in some sections which are said to oppose his stand on flood control.

"The state ticket will be endangered if Hoover's name is on the ticket," James A. Finch, president of the Young Republicans' Association declared. Finch is campaigning for Lowden.

Keith McCanse, state game and fish commissioner, was being discussed for the presidency of the association and Miss Martha James of Maryville and Miss Edna Landis of Kansas City are candidates for secretary.

"Miss Miller Not Engaged to Anyone"

Musical Comedy Star Scoffs Report of Engagement Broken to Ben Lyon —Never Been Engaged

New York, Feb. 13—Marilyn Miller, musical comedy star, today scoffed at the reported announcement by Ben Lyon that their "engagement" had been broken.

"I never have been engaged to Mr. Lyon," Miss Miller, the former wife of Jack Pickford, said. "I am engaged to no one and do not want to be engaged to any one."

Lyon, now in Hollywood, was quoted as saying he and Miss Miller had resolved not to marry because their work would keep them separated.

JACKSON TRIAL MORE LIVELY

JURY COMPLETED TO TRY INDIANA GOVERNOR FOR BRIBERY.

STATE TELLS STORY

D. C. Stephenson, Former Dragon on Klan, Enroute From Prison to Testify at Hearing.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 13.—The jury to try Gov. Ed Jackson, charged with conspiracy to bribe former governor Warren T. McCray, was completed today shortly after court opened.

With D. C. Stephenson, former dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, en-route here from the state penitentiary at Michigan City, to testify, the hitherto dull trial took on lively interest today.

Only one man was needed to complete the jury when court convened. He was selected speedily, and at 10:10 a. m. Emsley W. Johnson, special prosecutor, immediately started his opening statement.

Johnson related the story of the alleged conspiracy by governor Jackson, George V. Coffin, Marion county political leader, and Robert I. Marsh, attorney, to obtain appointment of James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor in December 1928, by offering Warren T. McCray, then governor, $10,000 and a guarantee that no jury in Indiana would convict him on mail fraud charges about to be brought against him.

He added to the story contained in the indictment the charge that after McCray had told Jackson he would not appoint McDonald, and would not accept the bribe, Jackson turned upon McCray and told him:

"Governor McCray, you keep this quiet."

McCray's son-in-law, William P. Evans was prosecutor at that time, but was preparing to resign.

Later, Jackson said, Stephenson was called in, and prevailed upon a friend, James W. Noel, to make the same offer to McCray again.

"You know me better than that," McCray replied, according to Johnson. "I may have lost my fortune. I may be convicted, But I have not lost my self respect."

After Johnson concluded, court adjourned until 2 p. m.

Martha James in Race For G. O. P. Secretary

In Brisk Fight with Jackson County Woman for Office In Young Republican's Association.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 13—The young Republicans Association of Missouri this afternoon elected Kieth McCanse, president; John Hadley, St. Louis, vice-president; and Miss Pauline Taubert, Warrensburg, secretary.

Jefferson City, Feb. 13.—A brisk fight developed yesterday between the two women candidates for secretary of the Young Republican's Association, Miss Martha James of Maryville and Miss Edna M. Landis of Kansas City, assistant secretary of the Jackson County Republican committee.

Miss James, an employee in the insurance department, was conceded to have the office cinched until the arrival of the Jackson County delegation today, which immediately launched a boom for Miss Landis, threatening to throw its support to a candidate other than Keith McCanse, state game and fish commissioner, who is seeking the presidency, if Miss Landis were not elected secretary. Both McCanse and Miss James have the backing of the capitol political faction.

Miss James announced late last night she would continue in the race unless she was convinced her candidacy would injure McCanse.

NO REPORT ON "LINDY"

AMERICAN FLYER HAS NOT BEEN SIGHTED.

UP SINCE 2:25 A. M.

Plane Believed to Be His Sighted Over Talladega, Ala.—Due at St. Louis Tonight.

Bulletin

Hohenwald, Tenn., Feb. 13—A monoplane believed to be the Spirit of St. Louis, was sighted flying in a northwesterly direction just west of Hohenwald, at 2:30 p. m. today.

Although the plane was too far away for the planes identification numerals to be seen, the plane was of the same sizeand type as the Spirit of S. Louis.

Hohenwald is 75 miles southwest of Nashville on a direct line from Talladega to St. Louis.

Talladega, Ala., Feb. 13.—A plane believed to have been Col. Charles Lindbergh's, enroute from Havana to St. Louis, passed over here at 1:05 p. m. today.

The roar of the motor was heard as the plane came out of the South. Low hanging clouds and a misty rain made identification impossible. The speed of the plane was estimated at 100 miles an hour.

Belief that the plane was Lindbergh's was strengthened by the fact that there are no other planes in this section and the city is off usual air routes. Talladega is 50 miles southeast of Birmingham, Ala.

No Word For Ten Hours.

Havana, Feb. 13.—The Cuban government radio station was ordered this afternoon to broadcast inquiries to boats in the Gulf of Mexico asking whether they had sighted Colonel Lindbergh.

Although the famous American flyer left here for St. Louis at 2:25 a. m., today, no reports of his progress had been received since he passed over Tortugas near Key West.

The engine of the apparently infallible Spirit of St. Louis was not regarded as working perfectly when Lindbergh left.

Telegraph and radio companies here at 1:40 p. m. had been without word of Lindbergh for more than ten hours.

River To Guide Lindy.

Lambert Field, St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13.—Belief that the Mississippi River—Father of Waters—would guide Col. Charles A. Lindbergh safely through the low visibility over southeast United States was expressed this afternoon as the hour of his arrival approached.

"Once he sights the Mississippi the rest will be easy," Major Albert Bond Lambert, leader in aviation circles of St. Louis, said. "Lindbergh is too familiar with this country to get off his course then."

For more than eleven hours no definite word of the Colonel's progress had been received because of the enveloping mantle of clouds and fog.

Hops Off At 2:25 A. M.

Columbia Field, Havana, Feb. 13.—By the night of a tropic moon, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh early today bade farewell to the land of his good will conquest and headed his plane toward St. Louis and home.

It was just 2:25 a. m. when Lindbergh took off from Columbia Field for a non-stop flight of 1,300 miles to St. Louis. He expects to bring his Spirit of St. Louis to rest on Lambert Field, St. Louis, by dusk.

The take-off was utterly lacking in ceremony. And was strongly reminiscent of that early morning last May when he hopped off from New York on his epochal flight to Paris.

It had been announced that "Lindy" would leave about 6:30 a. m. but the plans were switched suddenly last night and he retired early to prepare for a sooner start. Thousands who had planned to bid him farewell were disappointed when they found he already had

AGE AND HAPPINESS

(South Bend Tribune)

The passage from youth to middle age, thence to old age, is commonly viewed as one of the tragedies. Why? In most cases it is assumed that youth is the happiest time of life and that the exuberance of the adolescent period cannot be attained in after life. Strictly speaking, this is true. But the fact that physical, while that which may come in later years is of a mental nature, is often lost sight of. Prof. William Lloyd Phelps is among those who hold that the belief that youth is the happiest time is a fallacy.

"Here is a middle-aged woman," he says in a book published recently, "who becomes romantically sad as she talks of her lost youth. I maintain that it is as absurd for a woman of 50 years of age to mourn because she is no longer 20 years of age as it would be for a woman of 20 to sob because she is not 3 years of age." Nor is this absurdity confined to women. Most men become softies when they talk of their youth. Perhaps they really believe that they were happier 20 or 30 or 40 years ago. Thus their wet-eyed meditations may be excusable.

However, most men and women will find, if they give the matter sober thought, that they are much happier at 35, 45 and 60 than they were at 15, 20 or 25. Reviews of their lives based on realism rather than sentimentality will convince them that all genuine happiness did not cease for them after they made their first dollars or acquired their first beaus. In truth, the happiness of youth is often more than balanced by its unhappiness. Few persons would, if the opportunity were miraculously offered them, care to go through the trials and blunders of adolescence or young manhood of womanhood a second time. The man or woman of middle age will recall that the lessons of life were not learned without major tribulations. Why envy the young people who have yet to encounter this unpleasantness?

Hyde Out of Race for U. S. Senator

C. L. Faust of St. Joseph Among the Candidates Discussed at Lincoln Day Meeting.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 13.—Arthur M. Hyde informed Republican party leaders here yesterday that he will not be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed James A. Reed. Hyde said he will make formal announcement of his decision within a few days.

The announcement was regarded as the most important political development at the Lincoln Day dinner here since it leaves the field for Senator wide open today. Before the announcement it had been virtually assured by party leaders that Hyde would be given the nomination.

Hyde is holding off a formal announcement of his decision not to seek the senatorship to give the party leaders an opportunity to agree on another candidate.

Charles L. Faust, St. Joseph, representative in Congress from the fourth district; Roscoe C. Patterson, United States district attorney in Kansas City, Dwight Davis, secretary of War; and George H. Williams, St. Louis, former senator and defeated for election, are mentioned as candidates for the Republican nomination for Senator.

Parties Must Declare On Prohibition Issue

Methodsist Temperance Board Says Party Dodging Issue Cannot Elect Next President.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The Methodist Temperance Board predicted today that the political party declaring itself definitely wet or dry will elect the next president of the United States if the other party "dodges" the prohibition issue.

It also predicted that if a wet is nominated by either party he will carry the country provided the opposition has not declared itself dry. This was interpreted as a warning to Republicans to promise rigid prohibition enforcement as the only means to defeating Al Smith should the Democrats nominate him.

The board advised church-goers to insist on "bone-dry" planks in both party platforms to prevent such an outcome. Dry groups will meet here February 28 to frame dry plank demands.

Senate Commitee Advised That Prominent Oil Man Gave Money to Political Organizations

Washington, Feb. 13—The Senate Teapot Dome committee set its investigators working today on a confidential tip thata prominent oil man distributed bonds in $10,000 lots to state political organizations over the country several years ago.

Senator Walsh of Montana ordered this trial pursued as a follow-up to evidence given the committee that Harry Sinclair, indicted oil man, gave $75,000—part of it at least in liberty bonds of the mysterious continental trading company of Canada—to pay off part of the 1920 campaign deficit of the Republican national committee.

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 13—With the sun shining brightly, Meacham Airfield should be dry enough by Tuesday morning for Al Henley and Joe Hart to take off on their endurance flight, it was said by field attendants Monday.

The flight which was to have been started at 7 a. m. Sunday was delayed by rain Sunday morning which made the field too heavy for the big Ryan plane laden with 525 gallons of gasoline to take the air.

Mayor Miller Will Aid Judge Caulfield

Support of St. Louis Mayor for Caulfield's Candidacy for the Republican Nomination

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 13—Henry S. Caulfield, former St. Louis judge, last night received a telegram from Mayor Victor J. Miller of St. Louis in which he offered his support to Caulfield's candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor.

The telegram was sent from Biloxi, Miss., where Mayor Miller is on vacation. It stated in part:

"After careful study and thorough consideration of the candidates for governor for the Republican party, I have reached the conclusion that your experience as a public official in important offices you have held certainly has fitted you to efficiently, courageously and honestly fulfill the duties of governor to the satisfaction of the great majority."

Crawl Through Top As Car Catches Fire

Adrain, Mo., Feb. 13—Orcon Thein and Marcus Cohen, New York advertising men, crawled to safety through a hole in the top of their car after the machine caught fire near here yesterday when it overturned in a ditch.

The machine was said to have been forced into the ditch by a second car that drove onto the highway from a side road.

day." In the midst of his sermon, a blue lizard came across the platform and entered the trouser leg of the preacher. He still kept preaching, but was making violent dives at his trouser leg. In the course of time the one string broke and his trousers dropped off. This, however did not upset the preacher. He vehemently shouted his text, "I am the Christ whom I represent today." The lizard crawled higher and the preacher still preached. Then his shirt came off. This was too much for one good sister in the congregation and she rose in her tracks and said, "Sir, if you are the Christ, I am through with the Bible forever!"

Illustrates Character

Lincoln met several disappointments in his life, and finally had to go to work in a country store to make money to clear himself from debt. He was defrauded many times by his different partners and other people, but never did he let this affect him. Here is the story that Judge Otis told which illustrates Lincoln's strength of character and his loyalty to his friends.

His partner, Bill Green, came home one night and said that he had lost $5 in a gambling game. Lincoln studied a moment and then said, "You tell that fellow that you will bet $5 that Abe Lincoln can lift a two-hundred pound barrel of whisky on his back and drink out of the bung-hole." Bill went to the man and easily got the bet. Then Lincoln, with his strong muscles and steady nerve, lifted the barrel slowly on his back, put his mouth to the bung-hole, and took a mouth-full of whisky. He set the barrel on the ground again and spat the whiskey from his mouth. "and that, ladies and gentlmen, was the farthest liquor ever got down Abraham Lincoln's throat. He was the most temperate man of his time," Judge Otis said.

"Some persons say that Abraham Lincoln, if he were living today, would not be in favor of the eighteenth amendment. I cannot say as to that, but this I do know. If Abraham Lincoln were living today he would be in favor of the enforcement of every law on the statute books until that law could rightfully be changed. And this I know. No man can be a true citizen, and be true to the flag unless he stands for the enforcement of every law on the statutes until it can be duely changed."

Tells Political Career

Judge Otis traced Lincoln's fight uphill in his political life until he became president of the United States. He told how Lincoln 'studied' night and day for six weeks to learn the science of surveying. "That was the kind of a man he was and that is the kind of a man who succeeds."

Judge Otis pointed out that it was not necessary to go away from home to find these instances, and cited the lives of Henry Jost and one of the Wallace boys, both of Hopkins, who have made noteworthy names for themselves.

In concluding, Judge Otis cited three instances in the life of Lincoln after he had become president, that show his sympathy for mankind. The first was the story of the letter which was written to the widow who had five sons in the Civil War. The second was about the young sentinel who went to sleep at his post and would have been shot if it had not been for the president. The concluding instance cited was about a small boy who went to the White House to petition the president to get the boy's father out of jail.

Judge Otis closed his address with the last stanza of the well-known and stirring poem, "Captain, My Captain," (Walt Whitman).

The Nodaway County Bar attended the service in body.

The music, which consisted of an anthem by the choir and a solo, "Open The Gates of The Temple," (Knapp) by Miss Ruth Hopple, was under the direction of O. H. Sayler.

The Hart House String Quartet

of Toronto, Canada

will appear in concert this week,

Thursday 8 P. M.

This group of celebrated musicians is meeting with enthusiastic reception everywhere it has given concerts in the United States. The College takes much pride in presenting such a group of artists to the music-lovers of Maryville.

Last Monday they played before the Fortnightly Musical Club of St. Joseph. The following criticism appeared in the next day's St. Joseph News-Press.

CLUB HEARS REMARKABLE QUARTET.

Those who, because they love chamber music and rarely have a chance to hear it, braved the rain yesterday afternoon to hear the Hart House quartet were amply rewarded, for this proved to be one of the finest recitals ever sponsored by the Fortnightly Musical Club. The crystal room of the Hotel Robidoux was well filled, not completely, as would have been the case in fair weather, but with an audience unusually appreciative The most earnest, complete attention was accorded to every phrase.

Though, to old-timers, it may seem like sacrilege to compare a five-year-old organization with the Kneisel quartet of hallowed memory, there were those yesterday who felt that the Hart House excels this once supreme quartet, in spontaniety, in a certain exuberance, never caried too far. The Hart House quartet, without sacrificing one iota of needful unity, preserves the individuality of the various instruments, a rare achievement. The leader, De Kresz, called forth an incredible number of contrasting tones from his violin.

At times the quartet played so brilliantly that it sounded like an orchestra and at other times its work attained a marvelous delicacy. It has been said that no one plays well enough to play Mozart, but his "celestial enchantments of sound" were given with an ethereal clarity and with sincere understanding of the simplicity and beauty of this musician, whose life was all suffering and whose music breathes only happiness. His entire G major quartet was played and if any preference could be expressed between the four movements, it would fall upon either the minuetto or the andante cantabile.

But the quartet is remarkably versatile and captured the spirit of the ultra-modern. John Beach's setting of Fiona McLeod's poem concerning the wind was fascinating, descriptive and highly characteristic. The "Italian Serenade" brought forth much applause and as encore, Tschaikowski's andante cantabile. In this the players touched the heights. The tenderness of their interpretation was deeply moving. This was the only encore, though the performers were recalled again and again.

Every composition was made absolutely clear to the hearers. There was no blurring, everything was distinct, given with wonderful accent and rhythm, the concluding Schubert D minor quartet being no exception.

De Laval

50 Years of Service to the Dairy Industry

IN 1878 Dr. De Laval invented the first continuous discharge centrifugal cream separator. Since then more than four million De Laval Separators have been made, and they are now being used in every country of the world where cows are kept.

Fifty years ago dairying was undeveloped and of little importance. Today the dairy industry is the largest and most profitable branch of agriculture. The products of the dairy cow bring the farmers of this country more than three billion dollars a year in a steady cash income.

De Laval Separators revolutionized dairying, and authorities everywhere say they have done more than any other factor to develop dairying to its present size and profitable condition.

First in the beginning, De Laval Separators have kept the lead ever since. Now the 1928 "Golden Series" which we have on display mark another step forward. They are the most complete, efficient and beautiful cream separators ever made.

The best way to judge a new "Golden Anniversary Series" De Laval is to see and try one. We shall be glad to show you the many new features and refinements.

Maryville Boy Wins Six Points in Intercollegiate Swimming Contest at Iowa City

Howard ("Buster") Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Strong, won second place in both low board and high board diving contests, in an intercollegiate swimming meet held at the University of Iowa at Iowa City recently. He was high point man for Drake University, whom he represented in the competition, scoring six points, and thus enabled Drake to win second place in the meet.

In both events Strong was in competition with thirteen other divers, representing the University of Iowa, Grinnell and Ames, and several who were competing unattached. In the preliminary heat in the high board diving contests Strong was beaten by but one-tenth of a point.

Scotty Russell, swimming coach of Drake University, presented the local boy with a new red swimming suit and a pair of swimming shoes for his good work. The showing Strong made in the Iowa meet gives him a chance to compete in the Olympic try-outs if Drake will send him.

ATTEND SERVICES AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH LAST NIGHT

HONOR BY VERSE, SONG

N. Sisson, Civil War Veteran, Reads "Gettysburg Addrress"—W. R. C. at Services

The memory and deeds of Abraham Lincoln were commemorated by verse and song at the First M. E. Church last night when eleven members of the Maryville Grand Army of the Republic and nineteen members of the sister organization, the Women's Relief Corps, were guests of honor.

N. Sisson, of Maryville, one of the buglars who sounded taps to end the Civil War, featured the Lincoln program by reading the "Gettysburg Address.

"They have honored us by their presence here tonight," the Rev. W. S. Woodhull said.

The sermon of the Rev. Mr. Woodhull's included the reading of the most notable poems which best characterize the man Lincoln. The minister gave brief interpretations of the poems which were read. He first read Paul Lawrence Dunbar's, "Lincoln," followed by Edwin Markham's, "Lincoln, The Man Of The People." An interpretation of John Drinkwater's drama on Lincoln was made, concluding with Walt Whitman's, "Captain, O My Captain!"

Mrs. Bernhardt Bronson sang, "Open The Gates of The Temple," with a violin obligato by Miss Helen Dvorak, and with Mrs. A. A. Carter at the organ.

The Temple Male Quartet, consisting of Kenny Tebow, W. T. Garrett, Charles Gaugh, and Bernhardt Bronson sang, "Tenting on The Old Camp Ground."

Musical numbers were given by the Temple Orchestra, directed by Earl Somerville.

The members of the G. A. R. who attended were:

Ira K. Alderman, John G. Grems, Charles Hyslop, W. H. Hudson, A. R. Souers, A. M. Howard, T. J. Puckett, N. Sisson, J. H. Sayler, Steve Martin and Elwood Fakes of Pickering.

Nineteen members of the Women's Relief Corps, as follows, were present: Mrs. E. O. Foland, Mrs. Mary Herron, Mrs. Minnie Farrar, Mrs. Dora Eckert, Mrs. Mary Gault, Mrs. Mary Hook, Mrs. Minnie Haist, Mrs. Amelia Outs, Mrs. Anna Watts, Mrs. Lucretia Allen, Mrs. Sarah Slates, Mrs. Hattie Puckett, Mrs. R. S. Braniger, Mrs. A. M. Howard, Mrs. Maud Kerr, Mrs. Belle Frankum, Mrs. Lena Ruddle, Mrs. Minnie Hopper, and Mrs. J. E. O'Neal.

Crime Not Common As Penalty Is Certain

The Reverend Lakin Tells Christian Congregation Certainty of Punishment Best Thing for Our Land.

"When justice is enthroned it will be safe to live" said the Rev. L. E. Lakin of Kansas City in his sermon on "The Will to Win" at the First Christian Church here yesterday morning." The certainty of punishment is the best thing that I can think of for our diseased land. Where punishment is certain and drastic, crime is not so common," the Reverend Lakin asserted.

In citing instances of dealing out punishment to those who are guilty of transgressing the dictates of the law, the Reverend Lakin referred to the Hickman case. "I find myself in perfect accord with the verdict pronouncing Edward Hickman sane and guilty," he said. "But what now? What shall the sentence be? I know you are highly gratified that you are not presiding judge. I am. You don't believe in capital punishment. I could not bring myself to pronounce the death sentence. But on the other hand can we justify our stand? Our chicken-heartedness and laxity in law enforcement explain the crime wave that is breaking over us. The fact that just punishment is seldom meted out makes the criminal brave. All punishment seems inhuman to our sympathetic natures, but there is no other way to cure our serious disorders. Something of the justice of God is essential in our dealings."

The justice of God in dealing with the unfit is pointed out in several instances in the Old Testament, the Rev. Lakin illustrated. "One of the arguments advanced against the inspiration of the Old Testament is that it is unethical in its teachings," he stated. "Israel was ordered to destroy 'every living thing.' No military order was ever more drastic.

"How is God dealing with his people today? The Destroyer with grim visage is smiting down his hordes. Nations are passing—doomed to destruction. Whole peoples are losing out in the race of life.

"We are discovering now that for a people to live they must be fit to live. The law of selection is operative. Written large in the law of our being is the identical law that we point to as cruel and inhuman and unethical where penned on the Sacred page.

"Nature's laws are merciless. Sin leaves its mark on all alike. Call it what you will, but God is still smiting down the unfit. And there is not escape."

Says Hardships can Be Made Easy Tasks

The Rev. Mitchell Tells the Need of Close Communion With God When in Difficulty

"Easy Hardships," was the theme around which the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, centered his talk yesterday, pointing out the need of refuge and silence; a vision of man; being with God in the secret place; and how hard things become easy things.

"He entered into the house and would have no man know it, and He could not be hid," was the text taken from Mark 7:34.

"This is one of the places in the gospel where we are reminded of what the ministry of Jesus was meaning and costing Him," the Reverend Mr. Mitchell said." It is easy to be misled into the notion that until Gesthemane saw His agony and Calvary was near, what Jesus did for man was accomplished with comparative ease. He moved among men with the joy of radiant redemptive service forever about Him, but the burden of it was nobly hidden.

"If we go back into the chapter we will find why He felt the need of shutting the door so that no man might know where He was," the Rev. Mr. Mitchell said in the first point on the need of refuge and silence. 'Men gathered together unto Him, the Pharisees and certain of the scribes which had come from Jerusalem.'

"There is much stern work for Christians today in our social life and the place of communion supplies the safe guard the soul needs in such an hour.

"Jesus was vividly conscious of the worst side of human nature. He knew what in man looked to the foul depths of the soul. We may not live long in this world without knowing something of the worst side of human nature," the speaker said in visionizing man. "If we see very much of this worst side we need the opportunity of silence and communion with God.

"There are times to openly confess Him. There are times to be still. Our Lord has many things to say to us that He cannot say in a meeting," was included in the third point, with God in the secret place.

"You have known men brought to public shame and great personal despair by their sin. Silence fell about them. The pitiful silence of friends. The scornful silence of others. But in that silence and solitude the merciful God drew near to that seemingly forsaken man.

"He could not be hid," was the text used in the fourth, and last point of the Rev. Mr. Mitchell's sermon in relating how hard things become easy.

"It was not that Jesus was too big for the house. This is never to be told of the Christ. It was because there was a need outside too great for Him to withstand.

"When once the feet of Christ have crossed the threshold of a human heart, all wounded feet may cross there too. When once the Man of Sorrows has passed the portals of a human life, thereafter no sad lives are turned away unhelped.

"When once Christ has had speech with a man in the innermost place of the heart, that man hears the cry of others in their need, with mercy.

"When Christ has been hidden away in your life and mine, the hardest, the most unpromising task becomes easy."

Bible Gave Lincoln Standard of Truth, the Rev. Dewar Says

"There are few whose names shall endure in the memory of men as long as the races of men endure. They are among those whom the world recognizes as the truly great; men entitled to eternal honor, because they assumed the great responsibility of leadership of men, and discharged it with benefit and honor to all, counting no service too lowly, and no sacrifice too great in the maintainance of truth to the destruction of error and wrong," were the opening words of the Rev. William N. Dewar, in the Lincoln day sermon yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

"Men with a great fund of saving humor. Such as knew the seriousness and sorrow of life, but who never failed in grasping and opportunity to do a kind and loving deed and to make others happy. Such men as suffered in the suffering, and sorrowed in the sorrowing of others, counting himself with the one great bulk of suffering and sorrowing humanity," the Rev. Mr. Dewar said in examplifying the qualities that made Lincoln great.

"One of the greatest of men was Abraham Lincoln. Like Christ he was a man of the people," the Rev. Dewar said in lauding Lincoln as a peoples' leader.

"He came in a lowly way to earth; nurtured in a log cabin of the great Western frontier; early taught to earn his bread; enduring the dangers of the wilds and the hardships of the winter; blessed with few opportunities, but gifted with a love for books, and a spirit that knew no difficulties that could hinder his development and progress in the things on which he set his heart; the possibilities for scholastic education were meager, and his school days, in all, coming at different periods of his boyhood, numbered less than a year.

"Education of type, however, was not lacking, and when we peer into the heart of his after life, we see that he was just the type needed to fit him for the performance of the greatest task ever laid on the shoulders of one man in all the history of the American people."

In tracing the steps of Lincoln's life the Rev. Mr. Dewar said that it was the Bible that gave him high standards of truth and honor. "He found God revealed on its pages, and, even though we have no written record of it, it is safe to say, that he, in the silence of his own heart, dedicated his life to the service of God, and determined, unconsciously it may have been, and the more deeply ingrained in his nature if it was so, to be a man after God's own heart.

"His pen was ever busy in writing pardons for those who deemed themselves his enemies, for Lincoln was never an enemy to any man. It was not in his nature to be so, for his love of men was next to his love of God. Nothing less than the whole commandment of God could have ever satisfied a man of Lincoln's nature, and his love of men was tempered mightily by his love of God.

"In standing squarely for the truth he was evidencing his love for both God and man.

"When he was chosen of God and the people to become President of the great nation it was the riches of his mind and heart that shone forth, and by these things was he judged. God looketh not on outward appearance, but upon the heart, and the time had come when he needed a man after His own heart, to become the prince of his people, and to lead them to the light of truth and liberty."

THUS STORY THUS FAR

The story is laid in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '80's, when a fight was being waged for the opening of Oklahoma to settlement. Chief characters are:

TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was shot in a poker game;

PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, teacher, Indian interpreter, showman;

JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;

TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand;

RITA, his daughter, with whom Tony later falls in love.

Moore is one of the chief enemies of the movement to open Oklahoma. David Payne, leader of the "Boomers," dies and Tony in his loyalty to Moore is troubled because of his sympathy for Payne's cause. He tries to forget his hopeless love for Rita and accompanies Pawnee Bill and Buffalo Bill on a wild west show tour. When he returns he is unable to keep from declaring his love to Rita and when she admits she is engaged to another he disappears.

Pawnee Bill organizes his own show. Tony goes with it. It fails and Pawnee Bill is persuaded by the city of Wichita to go there and lead the Boomers into Oklahoma. The fight finally is won. On April 22, 1889, the gun is fired that sends 50,000 homeseekers scrambling over the border in a wild rush. Tony rides on to Guthrie which in one day is springing from nothing to a city of 8000. There he accidentally gets into the hardware business.

Mrs. Moore meanwhile has died and in Washington Titus Moore and Rita board a train to go back to the Bar K.

CHAPTER XLV.

The train sped on and neither of them spoke for a long time, although Titus Moore stole an occasional furtive look at his daughter and appeared several times to be on the point of asking a question.

He said presently, "One more thing about Tony Harrison before we drop the subject. Did you know that I had it in mind for a long time to adopt him?"

Rita looked startled. "Adopt him?"

He nodded. "I'd always wanted a boy—not that I'm dissatisfied with my daughter," he added with a smile, "but to just sort of round things out. It would have been right funny, wouldn't it—having Tony Harrison for a brother?"

She gazed out of the window. "Why did you change your mind?" she asked without turning around.

"I didn't," he said simply. "Tony just up and ran away when I was getting ready to talk it over with him."

"He'd never have consented," she said quickly.

"I'm afraid he wouldn't," Titus Moore acknowledged. "I've been right puzzled at times trying to figure out what he would have done about mixing himself up with the opening if he had been taken into the Moore family."

Rita said nothing more but continued to stare at the flitting landscape. Her father sighed and was silent with her. Between them they shared a common thought—that but for the unkindness of circumstances things would have turned out differently and more happily.

Neither of them mentioned Tony Harrison's name again until, once more at the Bar K ranch, the subject was brought up by Joe Craig.

"I've heard from him just once," Craig said worriedly. "That was when he wrote to say how bad he felt about Mrs. Moore's death. I know he was in the rush, but where he is now the Lord only knows."

He added darkly that many reports of violence had come out of Oklahoma since the opening. "There's been an awful lot of shootings. I'm worried."

Rita Moore went to bed that night with fear in her heart.

But in Guthrie the subject of their talk continued to get up with the dawn, breakfast leisurely and spend his days in a way that no longer seemed strange to him.

Of an evening he found it pleasant to stroll through the streets of Guthrie and smoke a cigar. There were many who hailed him as he passed—shopkeeper, the hotel proprietor, the president of the bank, where a swelling account testified to the progress being made by the firm of Perkins and Harrison.

Occasionally he dropped in at a gambling hall. But gone was the old intensity with which he had plunged in the days when gambling had meant temporary escape from fierce, unquenchable longings. He played only for the mild amusement that poker afforded, and the amiable companionship of men he liked.

A strange peace had descended on him—the peace that comes with days profitably spent. There were things—but they lay in the background of his mind, faintly smoldering. Rita was but a painful memory; she would be married; that chapter was forever closed. There was still the resolve to run up some day to the Bar K and see Joe Craig—some day when he should be less busy. He often thought of writing to Craig, but preferred to think of the other's face when he should tell him that he was a business man on the road to prosperity.

There rode into Guthrie one day and put up at the hotel, a dark-skinned man with a livid scar traversing one side of his face from eye to chin. His hair, the clerk noted as he removed his hat, was short and coal-black and slick with oil. He wore a short mustache and a goatee, and his eyes, which one expected to be dark, were gray and narrowed.

He announce to the clerk that he had come to Guthrie to "look around." He was thinking, he said, of establishing himself in some sort of business if the town's prospects looked as favorable as reports had indicated.

Tony Harrison, walking into the bank later in the day to deposit some money, passed the stranger coming out. The man nodded briefly and went on and Harrison was vaguely disturbed by the notion that somewhere he had seen that face before.

"The man that just went out looks familiar," he said to the cashier "Have I seen him before?"

"Can't tell you. He's a stranger here. Introduced himself as Howard Forbes, from Chicago. Said he had some capital to invest in Guthrie if the town looked good to him. And he talked like a man who was thinking somewhat of locating here. He seemed to be real interested in the bank's affair, on the ground that a bank's prosperity was a pretty good gauge of the prosperity of the community."

"Reasonable enough," said Harrison. "I suppose there's a lot of people coming in and making the same sort of inquiries."

"Plenty of them."

"Funny—for a minute or two I thought I'd seen him somewhere before. Guess I must have been mistaken though. Awful looking scar he's carrying around, isn't it?"

"Terrible," the banker admitted. "Just about ruins his looks."

Harrison left the bank a few minutes later and dismissed the stranger from his mind. Guthrie was a place where one encountered all manner of men. If Forbes was thinking of locating there, he was no different from hundreds of others who were awake to the town's opportunities.

With Fred Perkins he turned his attention to the building of an addition to the store and a shed for their lumber. Young Freddy Perkins, who appeared to inherit his father's aptitude for figures, did the bookkeeping, and the balance sheets were such as to cause Tony Harrison to wonder at the good fortune he had stumbled upon.

"We won't be due to slow up for quite a while," the elder Perkins predicted. "Folk's won't stop building till there's more homes for 10,000 people, and by that time Guthrie will be made capital of the territory and we'll be due for another boom.

"The firm of Perkins and Harrison, Hardware," he continued, "has made a profit of better than $8000 in less than three months, not counting in a little flyer here and there in the contracting business. We can't hope for things to continue that good indefinitely in hardware and feed; that's why we're branching out. I've been thinkin' over what you told me about the timber on some of the farms. We'll be putting up a sawmill next to our lumber yard, and cut down on the dressed lumber we're shipping down from Kansas. In the fall the farmers will be wanting to clear their land for spring planting, and a lot of 'em will be glad to give us their timber for the cutting and hauling."

Tony Harrison smiled. "The acorn is growing into a mighty big oak, Fred. After the harvest the farmers themselves will be wanting to build something decent to live in—those, at least, who've got a harvest to amount to anything. They're still living in dugouts—most of them. I figure we can do business with those who'll want to cut their own timber and haul it in—give them half, say, of the finished lumber. I can go even further than that. Those farmers who are not handy enough with tools to build their own houses can get financed through the bank, which will be glad to take mortgages. Seems to me you'd better start hiring a building force and devote your time to figuring out things with your pencil and paper. I'll handle the store."

"You'll do nothing of the sort. I'm counting on you to do some missionary work among the farmers—you're too valuable on the outside. I can pick up clerks as we need them."

"You're the boss," Tony grinned. That afternoon he saddled Cherokee and rode through the outlying farm districts. Wherever he found a sizable timber growth he stopped to explain the terms on which Perkins and Harrison would deal for lumber. He rode back to Guthrie after nightfall, with a half a dozen written agreements in his pocket.

Hungry and tired, he dropped in at the little restaurant he was in the habit of patronizing and found Morrison, cashier of the bank.

"Well," Morrison greeted him, "what new line is the form of Perkins and Harrison thinking of going into now? Seems to me every time I turn around you spread out a little farther."

Harrison laughed. "Perkins furnishes most of the brains and ambition. Did he tell you about the sawmill?"

"Today. By the way, your friend Forbes was in the bank again this morning."

"Forbes—Forbes. . . Oh, the man with the scar?"

"Yes." Morrison frowned. "You know, he doesn't exactly inspire me with confidence. If he's going to invest here why doesn't he make up his mind?"

"Has he said anything?"

"Mostly he does nothing but ask questions. He did say he was intending to drop down to Oklahoma City to look over the situation there."

"Funny thing," said Tony ruminatively; "I'm still bothered by the idea that I've seen him somewhere before. I haven't got the least notion of where it could have been. You say he comes from Chicago?"

"That's what he says."

"Now, I wonder," Harrison mused, "if it could have been there. . . No, it isn't likely. Just my imagination, I guess."

But it was not his imagination, as he was to learn soon afterward.

(To Be Continued.)

Forbes—the man is still on Tony's mind. In the next chapter comes a sudden flash of memory—and action.

Piles Now Cured Without Surgery

Every sufferer from piles or other rectal troubles should write for a new 68-page book on these ailments that is being distributed free and postpaid by Dr. O. A. Johnson, eminent Rectal Specialist and Ambulant Proctologist. It explains the new ambulant method that has cured more than 15,000 sufferers from piles without surgery, cautery, burning, acids, ligature, electricity or other harsh, painful means. Yet the piles are removed and cured cleanly, entirely and permanently. Ailments like nervousness, irritability, pain in the back, groin, head; stomach, liver and kidney troubles; constipation, rundown condition, female complaints and a host of others that rectal troubles so often cause, are usually cured, too, when the piles are cured. No matter how long you have suffered or how severe your condition, be sure to write Dr. O. A. Johnson, Room 134, 1324 Main St., Kansas City, Mo., and this valuable book will be sent you without cost or obligation.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Arguments Begin in Trial of Harry Hill

Illinois Youth Is Accused of Matricide.—Expect Case Will Go To Jury Wednesday.

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 13.—Closing arguments were begun today in the trial of Harry Hill, charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Hill.

As the attorneys began their addresses, the jury had under consideration a maze of legal entanglements, based largely on circumstantial evidence, which the state has woven around Hill in an attempt to prove the youth shot his mother and then buried her body in the basement of her Streator home.

It was expected the case would go to the jury by Wednesday night or Thursday.

LATIN UNION THREATENED

ARGENTINE DELEGATE DISRUPTS PAN-AMERICAN PARLEY

TARRIF PHASE ISSUE

Because Proposed Constitution of Union Contains No Denunciation of Trade Barriers, Delegate Objects

Havana, Feb. 13—Only a few hours after the departure of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, ambassador of good will, the peaceful atmosphere of the Pan-American conference was shattered again today.

Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentina, announced he would not sign a proposed union constitution because it contained no denunciation of tariff and other trade barriers.

Salvador Urbina, Mexico, insisted on re-consideration of a proposal that the chairmanship of the union be held in turn by representatives of each nation. Now any one may be elected, but by courtesy the United States always has held it.

Pueyrredon made his announcement a few minutes after the Pan-American union committee of the Pan-American conference had adopted without objection a preamble to the constitution and was considering a paragraph concerning the constitution's ratification by the republics.

Charles Evans Hughes, Chief U. S. delegate, rose to answer Pueyrredon.

A clause such as the Argentine delegate desired, Hughes said, would invite the destruction of the Pan-American union, making it the center of controversies that could not possibly be solved.

Hughes pointed out that Mexico, Chile and Salvador as well as other Pan-American countries, had trade restrictions similar to those of the United States, at which Pueyrredon was understood to be aiming.

It was the essence of the sovereignity of a nation, Hughes said, that it should have control of its taxation.

TOLL IN GOLD MINE FIRE AT THE 35 MARK

Eighteen Bodies Recovered From Canadian Mine During Night.—Fourteen Still Trapped.

Timmins, Ont., Feb. 13.—The death toll in the Hollinger consolidated gold mine disaster stood at 35 today.

During the night 18 bodies were recovered in addition to 7 already found. Fourteen men still were trapped on the 550-foot level and hope that they might be alive was all but abandoned.

Of the fifty-one miners entombed after fire broke out Friday morning, twelve were rescued alive.

Every agency of rescue work was marshaled for the last effort to save the men caught by monoxide fumes. Officials of the company and rescue workers would not admit their fears that all hope of bringing out the men alive had fled.

Norris, Smith Lead in Iowa Straw Vote

Sioux City, Ia., Feb. 13.—United States Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska, and Gov. Al Smith, New York, led the Republican and Democratic presidential lists, respectively, in a straw vote conducted by the Sioux City Tribune in parts of four states.

More than 41,000 votes were cast by voters of Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska and Minnesota.

Norris polled 8,543 votes, Hoover, 7,147; Lowden, 6,756, and Dawes, 6,355. Smith led the Democratic candidates with 7,513; Reed was second with 3,112, and McAdoo had 1,509.

Lucky Noah! He had the sea all to himself, and didn't have to mount any guns or build a fleet of cruisers to convoy him.

ST. LOUIS IS WAITING FOR HIS ARRIVAL

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13.—There was a touch of post-war days in the air here today as St. Louis prepared to welcome home Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his good-will campaigning plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

After a non-stop flight of 1,250 miles from the Pan-American Congress at Havana, the 'Lone Eagle' was expected to land about dusk at Lambert-St. Louis field, where nine months ago he embarked on an epochal conquest of the air.

When 'Slim' brings his silvery craft to rest here tonight, he will have completed an air distance of more than one and one half times around the world—Approximately 40,000 miles—each stage of which was made with almost bullet like precision.

Because of the late hour of his arrival, beacon lights have been installed at Lambert field, and at Scott Field, south-east of here at Belleville, Ill. They were considered a superfluous precaution, however, as Lindbergh knows the terrain here thoroughly as a result of his air-mail service.

Fly For Kiddies.

After a brief, informal reception at Lambert Field, Lindbergh will be taken to the home of Harry H. Knight, one of the sponsors of his New York-Paris flight, to spend the night. The 'Spirit of St. Louis' will be taken in charge by his former associates in the 35th Division Air Corps.

Tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. he is scheduled to give an aerial exhibition over the Mississippi River for approximately 50,000 school-children to be massed on the levees below.

Following the riverfront exercises, Lindbergh will swing out over the houst-tops of St. Louis, of East St. Louis, Ill., and of St. Louis County, Mo., for a novel house-top reception. Citizens have been asked to participate in the reception and thousands are expected to be perched on ridge-poles.

Lindbergh's future plans were not definitely known here. Backers of the newly formed St. Louis air board of 250 members, however, are expected to ask him to asume the presidency of the board. Ultimately he expects to turn 'The Spirit of St. Louis' over to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington.

HICKMAN GETS READY FOR HIS SECOND TRIAL

He and Welby Hunt Will Face Charges Wednesday of Murdering A Druggist.

Defense Gives Up Hope

Los Angeles, Feb. 13—All hope that Judge J. J. Trabucco will set aside the verdict in the trial of William Edward Hickman for the murder of Marion Parker had been abandoned by the defense today.

Attorney Richard Cantillon told the United Press the defense was concentrating its efforts upon an appeal to the supreme court.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—Already convicted of one murder, Edward Hickman today prepared for another murder trial, will bring him and Welby Hunt, a former pal, into court for the murder of Ivy Thoms, a druggist.

The motion for a new trial, which would set aside the verdict which found Hickman sane when he killed Marion Parker, was to be ruled on by Judge J. J. Trabucco tomorrow. Then Hickman once more will appear before Judge Carlos Hardy, disqualified in the Parker case, when he goes to trial Wednesday with Welby Hunt for the Thoms murder.

It was thought that Judge Trabucco would deny the motion and pass sentence on Hickman.

Hickman, although confessing his part in the murder of Thoms, has entered a double plea of "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity." Hunt has pleaded not guilty.

Earthquake Tremors Are Felt in Wyoming

First Shock at 7:34 A. M.—Father Forstall of St. Regis College Says Shock is Not Major

Thermopolis, Wyo., Feb. 13—Earth tremors several minutes were felt here today.

Dishes rattled on shelves, windows shook and citizens were thrown into confusion. Reports from outside points said the shock was felt as far as 30 miles from here.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 13—The seismograph at Regis College today registered the earth shock in Wyoming, Father Forstall told the United Press.

The first shock occurred at 7:34 a. m. and lasted one minute, and the second tremor lasted three minutes. Father Forstall expressed the opinion that the tremors probably were caused by a settlement of weak ground and were not major movements.

Golden C. of C. Pleads Farm to Market Road

Golden, Mo., Feb. 13.—A plea for farm to market highways immediately and a $100,000,000 state bond issue is contained in circulars mailed to civic bodies and chambers of commerce of the State by the Chamber of Commerce here.

The local organization protests the $75,000,000 bond issue on the ground that it will withhold building of farm to market roads until 1933.

Nation-Wide Search for Two Prisoners

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 13—While 1,000 possemen searched today for the bodies of deputy-sheriffs Wallace McClure and John P. Grove, a nation-wide police search was ordered for Samuel Baxter and John Burns, the two men are believed responsible for the disappearance of the officers.

McClure and Grove have not been seen since they left here for Pendleton reforatory where they were taking the two prisoners.

Belief that the two deputies were murdered by their prisoners grew as extensive search revealed no trace of either the officers or the prisoners.

McClure and Grove left here Tuesday with the prisoners in an automobile.

Baxter and Burns, under sentence for robbery, were last seen in Danville, Ill., Tuesday.

SPOOFHOUNDS VS. ROSENDALE

ANDREW COUNTY TEAM COMES HERE TOMORROW.

BEARCATS TO TARKIO

Tuesday's Game Will Be Twelfth for Maryville High School Cagers, Yet to Be Defeated.

The Spoofhounds and Bearcats will exchange places tomorow night, the College team leaving the home court to play at Tarkio while the High School quintet will face the Rosendale cagers on the Maryville floor.

The Spoofhounds have had more than a week of rest, as the game scheduled a week ago last Tuesday at Bethany was cancelled because of nearly impossible roads. The game at the High School gymnasium will be the twelfth one for the Spoofhounds this season and if the local High School players can send the Rosendale players home with the small end of the score, it will be an even dozen in the win column.

The Bearcats played Tarkio here the first game of the season and had little difficulty winning from the Missouri College Union team. The score was 34 to 9. Tarkio has shown some improvement since early in January, but has won only one conference game.

As there are two M. I. A. A. conference games here this week, no doubt Coach H. F. Lawrence will hold back the full strength of his squad in the Tarkio game for the two important games here.

So far this year the Spoofhounds have not had the support that their play has entitled them to. No doubt with the College basketball games, the fans have been saving their "coppers" to see a different brand of basketball. Regardless, the High School has had hardly enough support to pay expenses of visiting teams. When St. Joseph Lafayette played here, only a few supporters were on hand to see the best interscholastic basketball game of the season.

Last year the same condition existed at the High School and girls' basketball was dropped because it was a "drag" on the finances.

To St. Joseph On Visit.

Mrs. Frank Lawrence went to St. Joseph yesterday for a few days' visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Grant Althouse and Mr. Althouse.

KIRKVILLE IN M.I.A.A. LEAD

TROUNCES CAPE GIRARDEAU 34 TO 26 SATURDAY.

3 GAMES THIS WEEK

Kirksville Will Play Two Games at Maryville and Warrensburg.—At Springfield Thursday.

M. I. A. A. Standings.

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Kirksville	4	2	.666
Maryville	5	3	.625
Springfield	5	3	.625
Warrensburg	4	3	.571
Cape Girardeau	1	8	.111

Defeating Cape Girardeau Saturday 34 to 26, the Kirksville Bulldogs moved into first place in the M. I. A. A. basketball race, with a standing of four games won and two lost. Both Maryville and Springfield were forced down the ladder to a tie for second and third places with five victories and three defeats. Warrensburg is in fourth place with four wins and three defeats and the Cape Girardeau Indians trail with one victory and eight conference deefats.

Three conference games are on tap for this week's play, Kirksville coming to Maryville for a two-game series Friday and Saturday, and Warrensburg plays at Springfield Thursday night.

These games will determine whether Maryville or Kirksville will lead the race when the week is over. The teams have not met this year. Kirksville has a team which has been holding opponents to low scores, while it has not accumulated any overwhelming scores.

Another tangle will take place Thursday when the Mules and the Bears clash. Warrensburg has lost both of its games to date to the Southwest Teachers but only by narrow margins.

Maryville has four games remaining in the conference, three with Kirksville and one with Warrensburg. The Bearcats will go to Warrensburg February 23 and will conclude the schedule with Kirksville there March 3.

Reports of the game at Kirksville Saturday state that the Cape Girardeau Indians gave the Bulldogs a tough battle, which started out slow, but ended in a thrilling contest. The first half ended 15 to 9 in favor of the Bulldogs.

Miss Ina Waugh spent the week-end with relatives at Barnard.

SUB-DISTRICT TOURNEY RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

M. E. Selecman, Manager of Sub-District Basketball Play, March 2 and 3, Gives Regulations.

The rules and regulations for the sub-district basketball tournament to be held at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College March 2 and 3, were announced today by M. E. Selecman, tournament manager.

The sub-district tournament is being held this year for the high school basketball teams of Andrew and Nodaway counties and the winner and runner-up will be certified to the Northwest Missouri district basketball tournament at the College the following week.

The College will sponsor the sub-district tournament as well as the district tournament. The rules as announced by Mr. Selecman:

Every high school team in these two counties which has conformed to state and district regulations is eligible to participate in this sub-district tournament.

Entries must be sent to M. E. Selecman, State Teachers College, Maryville, on Form B, (state eligibility blank, obtainable from Carl Burris, secretary, Clayton, Mo.), with a postmark not later than February 26.

There will be only one class. When the entry list is complete drawings will be made by the College athletic department and teams notified when they will play. Games will not start until Friday afternoon, March 2.

There will be no final game. The two teams winning in the semi-finals will be certified to represent these two counties in the district tournament.

The College will pay meals and lodging for eight players and coach until the team is eliminated.

Pickering Drops Two Games Last Week-End

Nodaway County Champions Defeated by Fortescue 26 to 13 and by Oregon 29 to 14.

The Pickering High School team dropped two games last week, losing to Fortescue Friday 26 to 13 and 29 to 14 Saturday to Oregon.

Both games were played away from home. The Pickering cagers drove the 100 miles to Fortescue, arriving only 45 minutes before the game. The score at the half was 11 to 9 for Fortescue.

At Oregon Saturday Pickering held close onto the heels of the home team in the first quarter, trailing only 5 to 6. Oregon widened the gap to 18 to 7 at the half.

Stiff Assignment for Burlington Quintet

The Burlington Junction high school basketball team with fifteen straight victories to their credit, face the hardest week of basketball this season. On Tuesday night they play the strong Conception College team on the college floor.

These two teams met on the Burlington floor earlier in the season and a real battle was fought, the outcome being a victory for the Burlington quintet, after a discussion over a foul.

On Friday night of this week they play the Hopkins quintet on the Hopkins floor. This team has twice been defeated by Burlington on the Burlington floor. A hard game is expected at both Conception and Hopkins and should the Burlington team come out victorious in both games this week they will probably have a clean slate when they meet the Maryville Spoofhounds two weeks from tonight.

Sooners Beat Tigers

The Oklahoma Sooners today remain supreme in the Missouri Valley, having defeated the Missouri Tigers 34 to 33 at Norman, Oklahoma., in one of the greatest basketball games ever seen there.

Blue Diamonds Beat Bears

The Springfield Teachers suffered two defeats in their tour of Northern Missouri, taking a beating Saturday night at Kansas City 27 to 23 at the hands of the K. C. A. C's. The night before the Bearcats inflicted a 40 to 34 beating to the Bears.
